

Pre-university Writing Workshop

Are you interested in improving your academic writing skills before you head off to university or college?

If so, you have the opportunity to attend a four-day workshop to do just that. The workshop will be a timely review of term paper and research writing skills. Because this review will be done in a small group setting, instructors will be able to provide individual support and valuable feedback in terms of comments and suggestions to help your writing improve. As a result, you will be better prepared for your first year at university or community college. So sharpen those pencils and sign up for this awesome opportunity.

If interested, email Brenda MacIsaac at Mi'kmaw Kina'matnewey brenda@kinu.ca. Let me know what program you are enrolled in (Arts, Commerce, Science, etc.) so instruction can be planned to suit your needs. Seats are available on a first come, first serve basis so the earlier you send off an e-mail, the better your chance of getting into the workshop.
